THE UNIVERSITY OF ARKANSAS MEDICAL CENTER 1967-1968

The University of Arkansas Medical Center ranks among the best medical centers throughout the country. The $20,000,000 structure (completed in March, 1957) is composed of the following two units: a 450 bed-capacity hospital and an educational wing. During 1967 the census for the University Hospital was care for 11,845 patients and 2,026 new babies as well as care for more than 90,000 outpatient and emergency room visits.

Through the cooperation of highly motivated staff members, students, and health professionals, the Medical Center in 1967 produced:

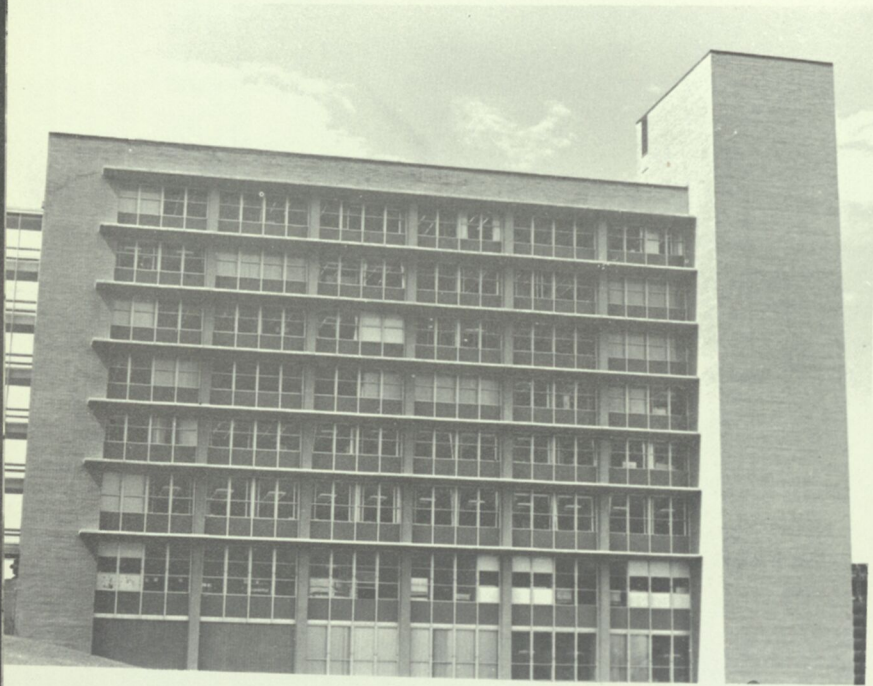

1. 79 physicians, 41 pharmacists, 24 nurses, 14 medical technologists, and 24 X-Ray technicians.
2. Initiative to help create a regional medical program to fight heart disease, cancer, stroke, and related diseases.
3. A new concept for a child guidance center.
4. New schools of Dental Hygiene and Cytotechnology.
5. A new life for a Costa Rican boy, among others through kidney transplants.
6. A new clinical pharmacy and a modern centralized dictating system.

The above are remarkable accomplishments for an institution which requested and justified a 48 per cent increase in operation funds during the first year of the current biennium. Yet, it received a mere 8.55 percent increase from the legislature. This increase is insufficient for the Medical Center to bring salaries to the level of those in other institutions in this area.

Perhaps it will soon be realized by responsible men that regardless of how high an institution's ideals may be, adequate financing is the foundation for their support.

THE T.H. BARTON INSTITUTE

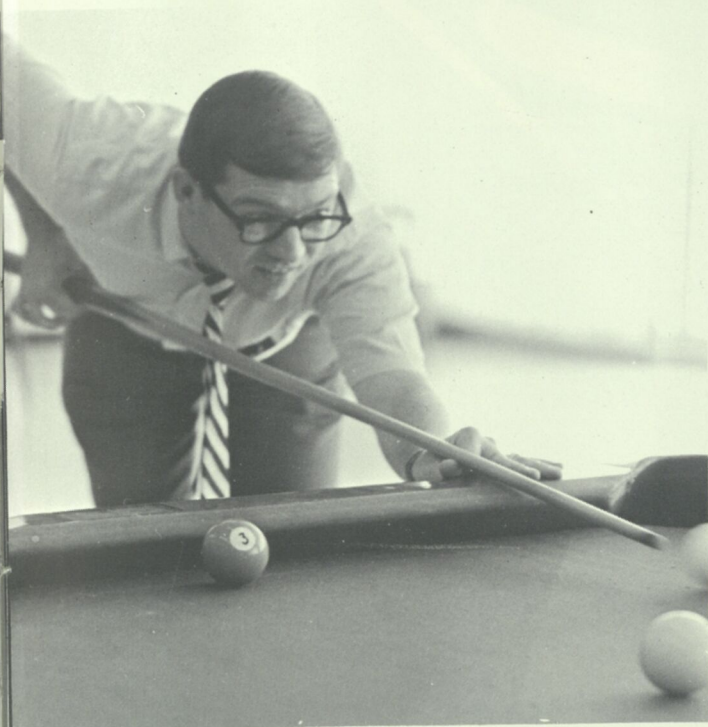

This nine story medical research building was completed in 1960. The impetus for its construction was provided by Col. and Mrs. T. H. Barton in the form of a $600,000 donation. It is in this building where crucial research is conducted providing a basis for better patient care.

LITTLE ROCK VA HOSPITAL

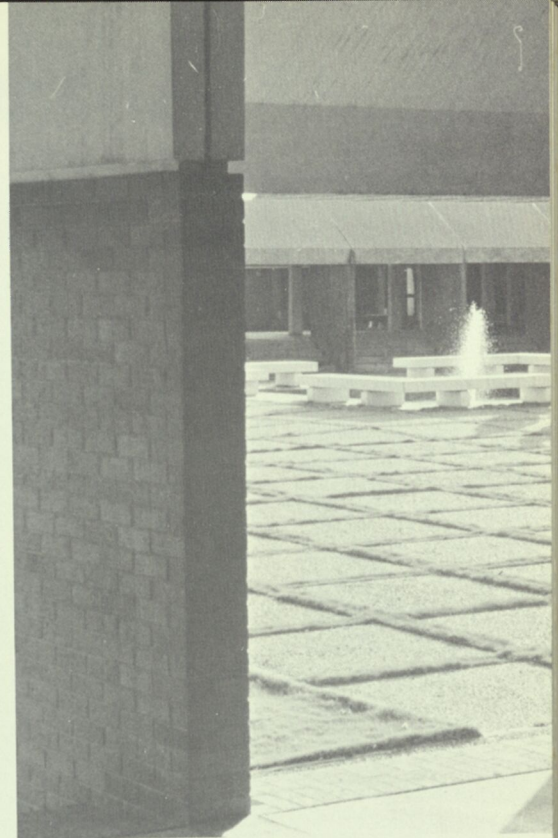

The Little Rock VA Hospital has a total bed capacity of 471 with 5,512 admissions per year and 32,000 patients followed per year on an outpatient basis. The VA provides clerkships for junior and senior medical students and is engaged in an active internship and residency program. It also provides, as can be seen, a variety of interesting patients.

The Administration Building

ARKANSAS STATE HOSPITAL

The view.

The wishing well.

Arkansas is recognized as a leader in the field of mental health. This is due primarily to the active building and training programs of its State Hospital. Through appropriate legislation and federal grants, the hospital system has accelerated its training programs for psychiatrists, nurses, and psychiatric technicians.

The maximum load of the Little Rock State Hospital is 800 patients with an active follow-up program of 200 outpatients. In the period 1955 to 1967 admissions have increased 90 percent with the length of stay decreasing 133 percent.

The State Hospital and the University Medical Center work closely together for the mutual benefit of both institutions. Residents in several fields at the Medical Center rotate through the State Hospital as a part of their training. Likewise psychiatric residents spend one of their three years of required training at the Medical Center. Also as a part of their course in psychiatry, senior medical students and nursing students rotate through the State Hospital.

ARKANSAS CHILDREN'S HOSPITAL

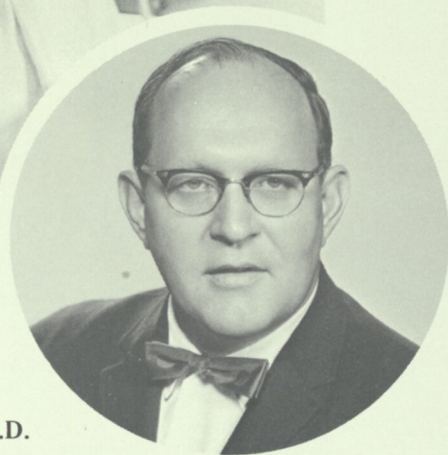

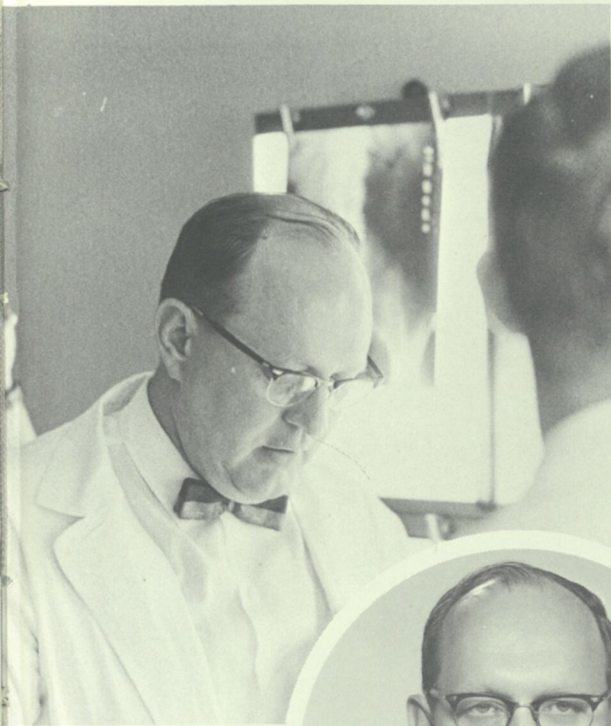

The Price.

A Helping Hand.

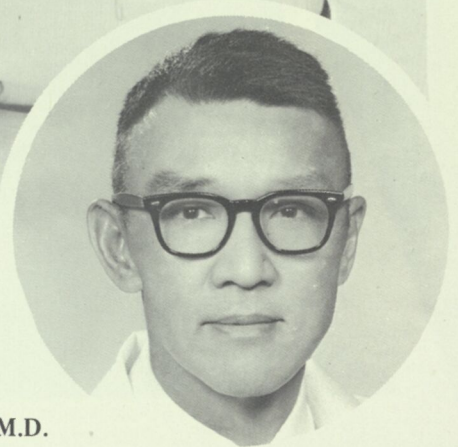

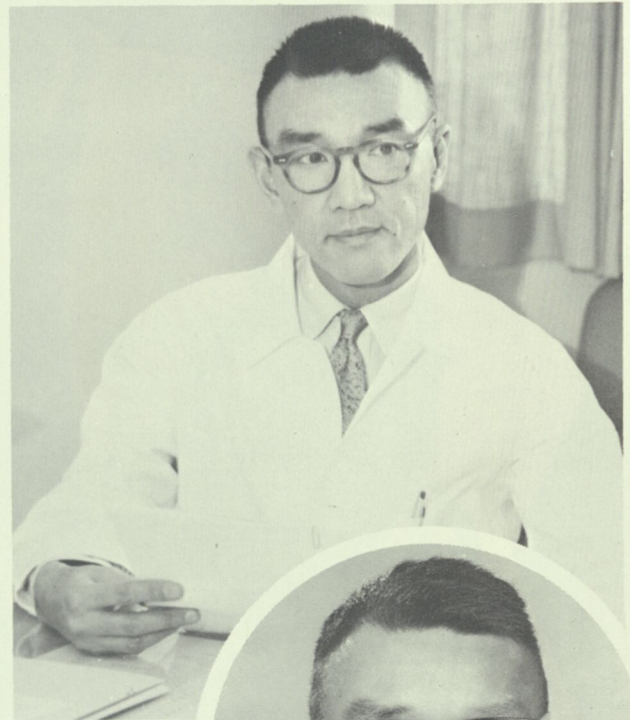

Arkansas Children's Hospital is a 62-bed fully accredited non-profit institution providing comprehensive medical and surgical care for children of the State of Arkansas. Arkansas Children's Hospital has been affiliated with the orthopedic residency program of the University of Arkansas Medical Center since 1962. The orthopedic residents serve six months as junior residents and six months as senior residents at the hospital. Senior pediatric residents have had a three month rotation at ACH since 1965. The staff of the hospital consists of private practitioners of pediatrics, orthopedics, surgery, and dentistry in Little Rock, plus consultants from the Medical Center.

The physician with his black bag has long stood as a source of mystery and wonder to the young. With time and education, much of the mystery will wane; yet, the wonder of medicine will grow and hence is born a new physician.

STATE OF ARKANSAS
OFFICE OF THE GOVERNOR
LITTLE ROCK

GREETINGS TO THE

STUDENTS OF THE UNIVERSITY OF ARKANSAS MEDICAL CENTER:

It pleases me to have the opportunity of sharing in your recollections of another important year in your life through the 1968 CADUCEUS.

The students of our state are a constant source of inspiration to me. You are a part of the vast potential of capable people in Arkansas who can make our state motto "Land of Opportunity" even more meaningful. I am hopeful that you are aware of the faith that I and so many others have in you.

Each of you has already assumed the responsibility of study and preparation for your career. In so doing, you have not only gained invaluable experience that will be personally rewarding but, even more important, you have acquired knowledge with which to aid your fellow man. We have a great need for competent medical people, with fresh ideas and dedication, to cope with the problems that face us and who can give us solutions to tomorrow's challenges.

I pledge my continued efforts to building the kind of state you will want to live in and that will offer you the opportunities you need for the promise of your future.

With all good wishes,

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in dark ink, appearing to read "Winthrop Rockefeller".

AUDIO-VISUAL

Bob Donaldson
Director of Audio-Visual

The Audio-Visual Department plays a vital part in the educational and research programs of the Medical Center. During the past 2 years, under the direction of Bob Donaldson, it has become commonplace to view procedures, operations, and interviews via the cameras of Audio-Visual.

DEPARTMENT

Mr. Jack Diner
Artist and Chairman

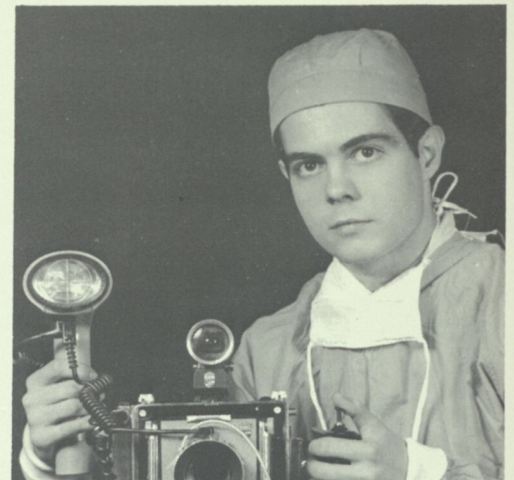

Mr. Ron Tribell
Assistant Artist

Mr. Paul Chase
Chief Medical Photographer

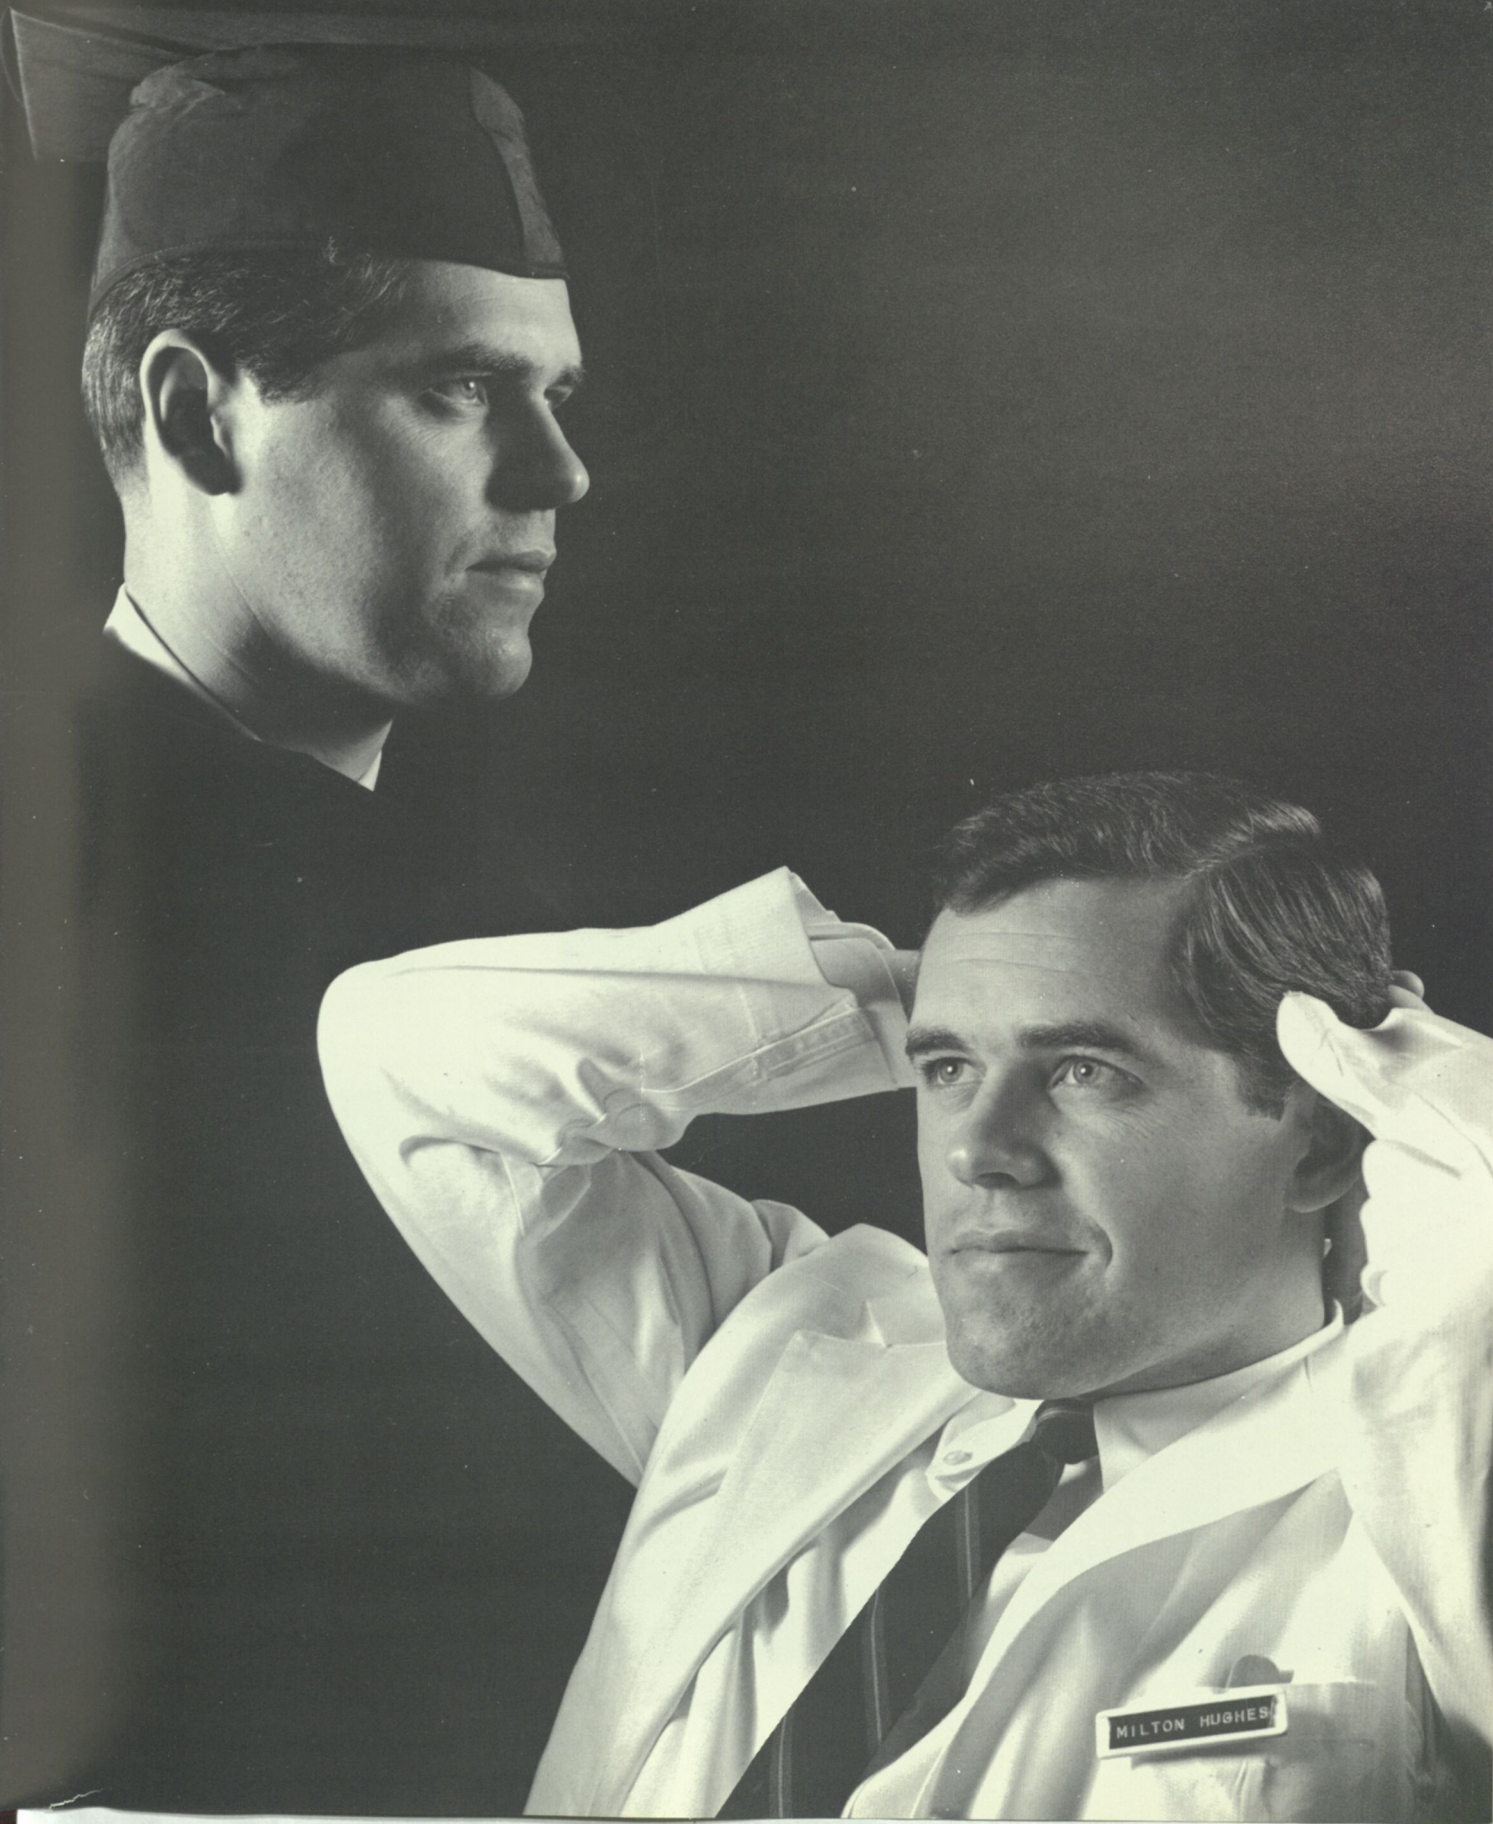

O F M E D I C A L I L L U S T R A T I O N

Mr. David Gray
Medical Photographer

Through photography and artwork, Medical Illustration performs an invaluable function for the Medical Center. Without the aid of graphs, sketches, and photographs as a means of recording data and specimens, much useful information would be lost and its process of dissemination to the physicians and students of the University Hospital impeded.

ALPHA OMEGA ALPHA

Alpha Omega Alpha is an honorary medical fraternity comprised of three classes of members: (1) Undergraduate membership based entirely on scholarship, personal honesty and potential leadership; (2) Alumni and Faculty membership granted for distinctive achievements in the art and practice of scientific medicine and (3) Honorary membership awarded to eminent leaders in medicine and allied sciences.

The motto of the Society is:

"Ἀξίος ὠφελεῖν τοὺς ἀλλοῦντας"

AMERICAN MEDICAL WOMEN'S ASSOCIATION

This association, familiarly known to all as the Ladies Aid, carries out several vital projects each year, including a get-acquainted party for incoming freshman women, obtaining Christmas gifts for women patients at State Hospital and participating in various charity work. They also attend medical school in their spare time.

The Medico is a student newspaper published (roughly) every month. It is a vital part of the Medical Center as the Housekeeping Dept. uses it to line wastebaskets. According to one source, the Medico's motto is "No news is too old to print."

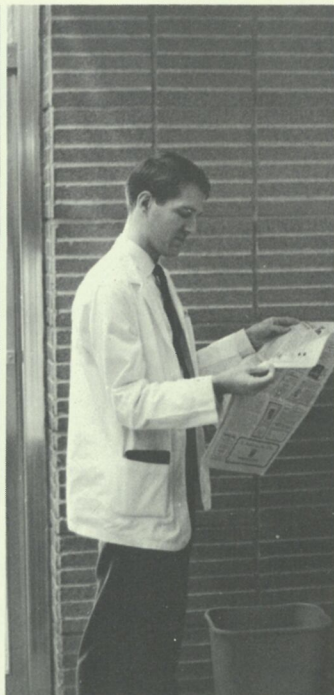

Innocence is reflected in the above picture symbolic of the statue of Justice, blind justice In her right hand she holds Evidence, in her left hand she holds a beaker of Tears weighting the Evidence down considerably. What will the verdict be?

MED STUDENTS ABROAD

Cockrill and patients.

Howard Cockrill, Jr., was one of several American medical senior students to be selected by the S.K.F. pharmaceutical company to observe the practice of medicine in an underdeveloped country. He chose to visit the district of Kalahandi, a district considered primitive even by Indian standards. He had a chance to practice medicine in an area which contains vast medical problems and whose people are florid with pathology.

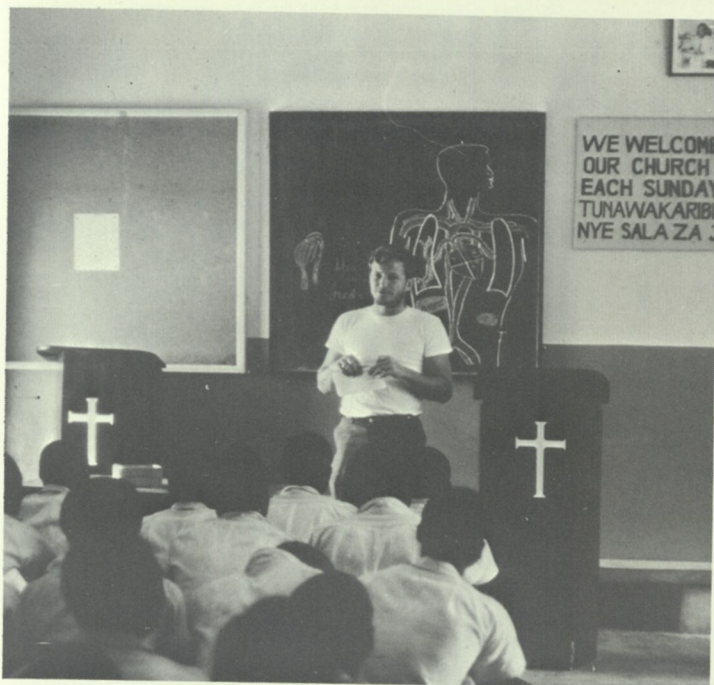

Cockrill presents a meal of rice to emaciated Indian.

Crawley and Dr. Battistini give an injection to a rural patient.

Henri Crawley, Jr., thru a fellowship in tropical medicine sponsored by L.S.U., lived in Ciudad Bolivar, Venezuela for 10 weeks. He had a chance to observe the diseases peculiar to the Llanos region. Henri and another medical student studied leishmaniasis in a people who had never before received medical attention.

Duke Jennings delivers a lecture on the physiology of the circulatory system to a biology class at a government school.

Duke Jennings and Stan and Betty Combs spent 9 weeks of the summer of 1967 working in a mission hospital at Chimala near Mbeya, Tanzania, East Africa. A large part of each day was spent in seeing patients both in the clinic and wards of the hospital. Time was available also for reading about the diseases observed. Several clinics were held in nearby villages for smallpox and typhoid vaccinations.

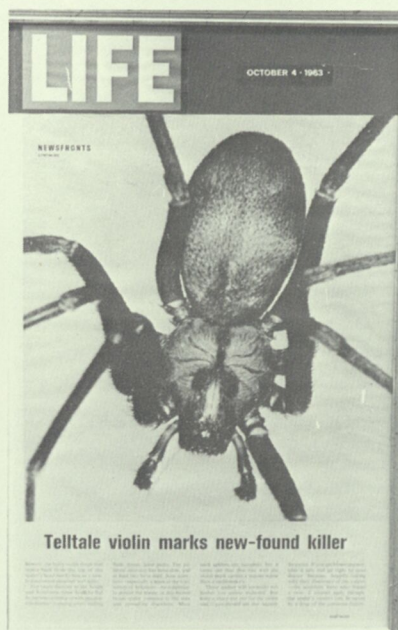

Stan Combs gives one of 400 smallpox and typhoid vaccinations at a clinic held near the hospital.

Galbraith and patients pose in cornfield in Costa Rica.

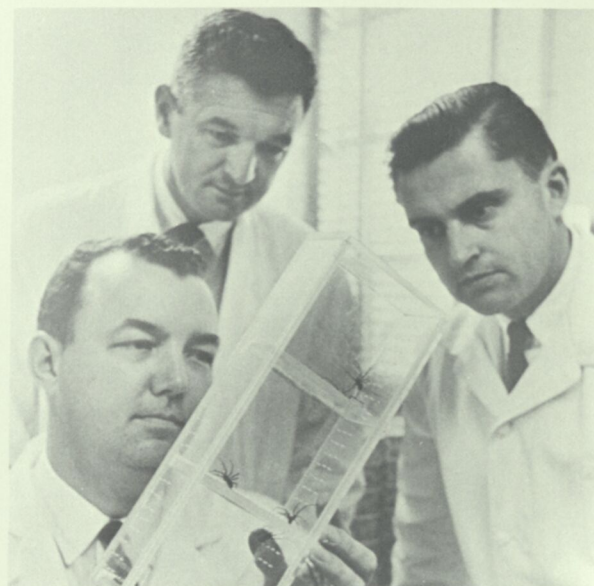

Bob Galbraith spent the preceptorship period this summer as an L.S.U. fellow in tropical medicine in the Central American country of Costa Rica. During his eight weeks there he saw many diseases common to Arkansas, but in addition saw such tropical diseases as chromoblastomycosis, leishmaniasis and other parasitic diseases common to Costa Rica. He had a chance to observe some of the most up-to-date and sophisticated practice of medicine in the world as it is practiced under primitive jungle conditions.

RESEARCH AT THE UAMC

D e r m a t o l o g y

Investigators Dillaha, Jansen, and Honeycutt view the brown recluse in its artificial habitat.

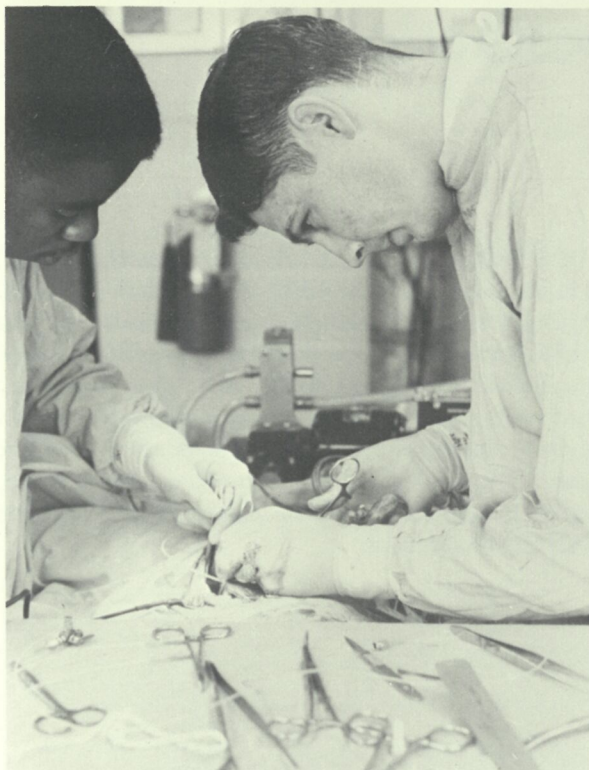

Spider in holding device and electrically "milked" of its venom.

Studies of the venom from the Loxosceles reclusa, commonly referred to as the brown recluse spider, has created an important medical problem in many areas of the Central United States. The disease is characterized by local necrosis (intravascular occlusion), thrombocytopenia, intravascular hemolysis and complications thereof including death.

The venom from the spider contains several different biological activities. Future studies are directed toward separation, isolation, and characterization of various biological properties which are of significance in many areas of research and clinical medicine extending even to the field of organ transplantation.

Other studies currently in progress are the effect of topical antimetabolites and antineoplastic agents on epidermal neoplasia, herpes simplex, and on hypopigmented areas of the skin.

The dog lab, where basic research leads to clinical improvements.

C a r d i o v a s c u l a r

Dr. Masauki Hara and his colleagues invested many fruitful hours in the experimental surgery laboratories, and their accomplishments served to augment the academic excellence Dr. Hara displayed in both teaching and patient care. Dr. Hara's efforts were primarily in the cardiovascular and transplantation field, and these areas are still under intensive study in the surgery laboratory. A project currently in progress is the use of a transvenous balloon catheter for partial obstruction of the main pulmonary artery, and this work is being done in collaboration with Dr. Bulloch in the Dept. of Medicine. A technique has been developed for reversal of the pulmonary circulation and physiological studies are in progress comparing the lung with an antegrade pulmonary blood flow to the lung with a retrograde pulmonary blood flow.

Dr. Fred Caldwell is nationally known for his work on energy loss following trauma, burns, etc. His superbly well equipped laboratory is now nearing completion, and his studies with direct calorimetry are now underway.

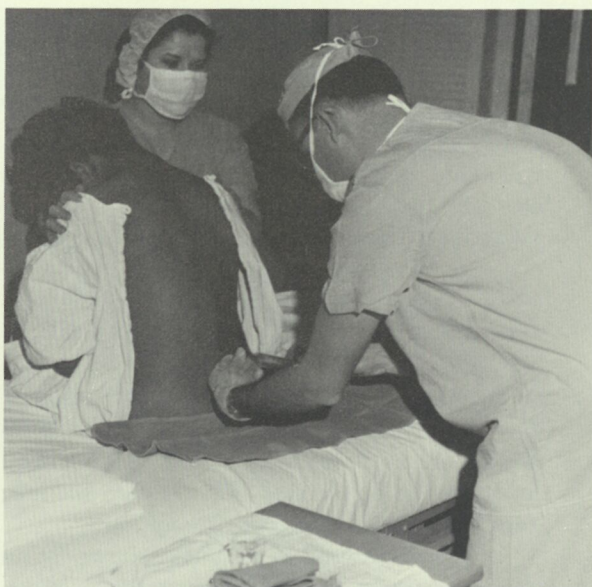

Hemodialysis on 4-C prior to renal transplantation.

K i d n e y

The Clinical Research Center of the University Hospital is in its 7th year of operation. During this time the Center has done 27 kidney transplants in 22 patients. Survival with living donors has been 78% for periods up to 4 years. Many of the early transplants were cadaver grafts, and the overall survival with cadaver transplants has been 20%.

Tissue typing has been developed to the extent that it is now possible to gage the degree of histocompatibility between donors and recipients. The new means of immunosuppression being developed at other transplant centers include the use of anti-lymphocyte globulin and lymphocyte depletion. These additions to therapy should increase the survival of kidney transplants and may pave the way to the transplantation of other vital organs.

Obstetrical Anesthesiology

Dr. Richard B. Clark, an obstetrical anesthesiologist, is in the process of correlating the acid-base values and apgar scores on the umbilical cord of newborns with the length of labor, type of forceps, presentation, and anesthesia. It has been found that apgar scores are better and acid-base values are more favorable with an epidural anesthesia than with the popular "twilight sleep." Excellent anesthesia is produced by epidurals, and it is believed to be the closest to the ideal for obstetrical anesthesia.

An epidural is given to this patient prior to delivery.

The Arkansas Regional Medical Program

The Arkansas Regional Medical Program officially began in April of 1967 when the NIH awarded a 2.5 year Regional Medical Program planning grant with $360,174 allotted for the first year. The program is aimed at making available to physicians, hospitals, and health related professionals the latest advances in diagnosis and treatment of patients with heart disease, cancer, stroke, and related diseases in the Arkansas region. Multidiscipline teams meet with physicians in counties throughout the region to discuss the needs expressed by the medical community. They will consider factors such as population, disease incidence, existing medical and communication facilities, number and availability of health science personnel and continuing education programs.

The University of Arkansas School of Nursing was established in 1953 as an independent professional school of the University. It is a member of the No. Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools and is accredited by that body and by the National League of Nursing. The four year program of the school, leading to the degree of Bachelor of Science in Nursing requires satisfactory completion of two academic years of liberal arts courses at an accredited college and two calendar years of professional instruction at the medical center.

The students are encouraged to utilize their liberal arts background in the development of their professional personality. Resources such as adequately prepared nursing instructors, the Arkansas State Hospital, Veterans' Adm. Hospital, and other community health agencies are utilized in preparing the students for their professional role.

The major focus of the School of Nursing in its baccalaureate program is to evoke the development of compassionate, professional nurse practitioners with abilities in health care of individuals and groups through shared partnership with physicians, in nursing team leadership, and as assistant co-ordinators in the health team.

NURSING STUDENTS' ASSOCIATION

The Nursing Students' Association is a pre-professional organization for nursing students. It is organized on three levels—local (district), state (Arkansas State Nursing Students' Association), and National (National Students Nurses' Association).

As defined in the bylaws, the purpose of the NSA is "to aid in the preparation of student nurses for the assumption of professional responsibilities." Any student enrolled in a state-approved program for the preparation of registered nurses is eligible for membership in the NSA.

Members participate in activities on all three levels of the association. Nursing programs, for new nursing students, and programs to promote student-faculty relations are a few of the local activities.

Members also participate in state conventions, workshops, and committees and seek association offices on the state level. For 1968, the University of Arkansas NSA has placed five officers in the state association.

SCHOOL OF GRADUATE STUDY

Dr. Carl E. Duffy
Assistant Dean of Graduate School
Chairman, Department of Microbiology

Today graduate research is becoming more and more a vital factor in expansion of our knowledge in the medical sciences. In keeping with this, the University of Arkansas offers graduate work at the Medical Center in the Departments of Anatomy, Biochemistry, Microbiology, Physiology, Pharmacy, Pharmacology and Radiological Health. These various departments contain laboratory facilities of the most modern design, this being essential to meet the demands of modern research. In addition to the usual instrumentation, specialized instruments such as the electron microscope, preparative and analytical ultracentrifuge, amino acid analyzer and scalers for measuring radioactive isotopes are available to fulfill the needs of an expanding research program. Along with this expansion of the research program has come an increasing Graduate School enrollment. These growths are indicative of a good and stable graduate program. The Graduate School, then, plays an essential role in the overall growth and development of the University of Arkansas Medical Center.

ASSOCIATED GRADUATE STUDENTS

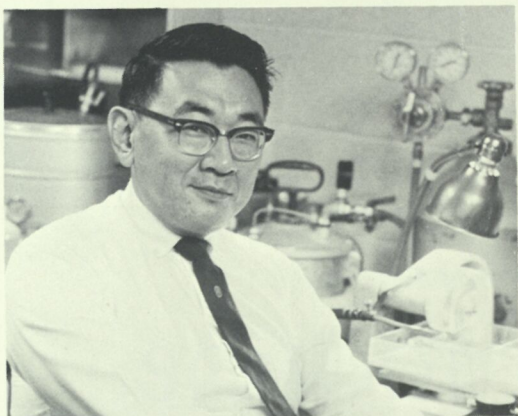

The Associated Graduate Students is an organization composed of all graduate students associated with the University of Arkansas Graduate School in the Little Rock area. The organization serves to promote fellowship by bringing together the varied interests represented by the different departments. Likewise, it is designed to promote a sharing of ideas in research and teaching.

CORONARY CLUB MEMBERSHIP REQUIREMENTS

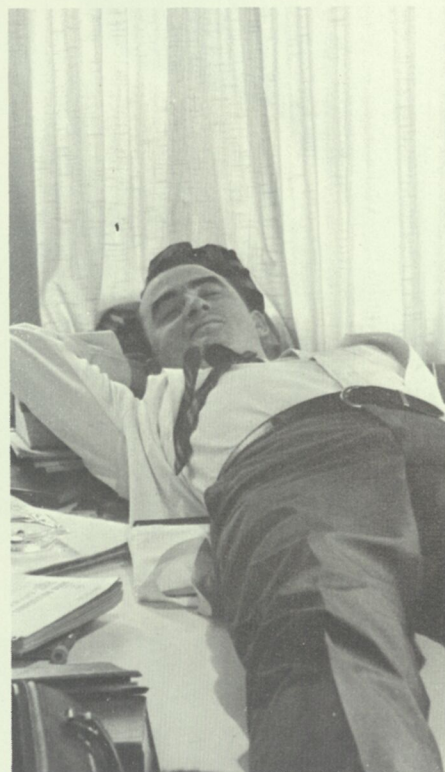

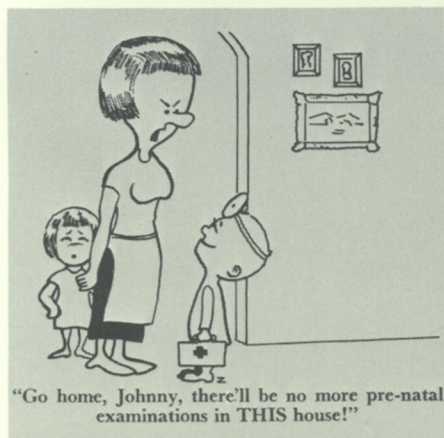

1. Your job comes first; personal considerations are secondary.
2. Go to the office evenings, Saturdays, Sundays, and holidays.
3. Take the brief case home on the evenings when you do not go to the office. This provides an opportunity to review completely all the troubles and worries of the day.
4. Never say No to a request — always say YES.
5. Accept all invitations to meetings, banquets, committees, etc.
6. Do not eat a restful, relaxing meal — always plan a conference for the meal hour.
7. It's a poor policy to take all the vacation time which is provided for you.
8. Fishing, hunting, golf, bowling, pool, billiards, cards, gardening, etc. are a waste of time.
9. Never delegate responsibility to others — carry the entire load at all times.
10. If your work calls for traveling — work all day and drive all night to make your appointment for the next morning.

Each year the Caduceus conveys different meanings to groups of people at the Medical Center. For the underclassmen, it represents another step toward their final goal, be it M.D., Ph. D., or R.N. To the graduates of the present year, it symbolizes the completion of one phase of training and the start of yet another. To the faculty it is but one step in the education of individuals in medicine and related fields.

The period 1967-68 has been an eventful one for the Caduceus. It began last summer with high hopes of having a new publication quite different from years past, but when finances were considered, we thought that perhaps it would be wiser to have only a moderate number of changes in the yearbook. These are as follows: (1) An original Caduceus for our cover drawn by artist Jack Diner; (2) New section dividers for the various schools by a rather cute artist-teacher, Mary Speights; (3) All new faculty photos along with humorous introductions to the various departments; (4) A touch of professionalism added by the photography of David Gray, Henri Crawley and Paul Chase gave the yearbook a sophistication which it lacked formally; (5) Color photographs which add some spice to the austerity of the usual black and white. An additional improvement which resulted from the 1968 Caduceus was the transference of the UAMC graduate school yearbook dues and activity fees from the Fayetteville treasury to that of the UAMC where they rightfully belong.

I am grateful to Bob Arrington for his assistance in preparation of the senior section of the medical school and to John Watson for his many constructive suggestions. Also I certainly appreciate the typing of Miss Bobby Faulkner and Mrs. Barbara Babb.

My staff and I present this book to you with hopes that you will enjoy its contents for years to come.

William L. Mason
